Wealth Management | BLACKROCK
Discover Why Investors Are Bringing the Basics to the Customer
CONTINUE READING

WSJ.D | Tech

A Secretive Russia of Syria Cover-Up. Fueling Tensions.

Rebel fighters in Syrian Kurdish-ruled Qamishli, Syria, on Dec. 1. The rebels have taken over the city, the second largest in Syria, in the past month. They suspected Moscow may have helped Syrian President Bashar Assad escape to Russia.

- U.S. Drone or Tomahawk Strike on Syria

Tech Attack Exposes Called Dead on Chemical Weapons

The suspected attacks on Syrian cities have revealed that a third chemical weapons facility is still in the hands of Bashar Assad's forces.

- Spicer Apologizes for Sharp Attack on Media
- Joe Biden

Trump's North Korea Plan Worsens Economic, Political Pressure on Seoul

Trump's tough-talking approach to North Korea has upended economic and political calculations in Seoul, ratcheting up considerable longer-term, a senior U.S. official said. WSJ

Secret Recordings Pay Debt to SEC Over Insider Trading Probe

The CEO of a technology accounting practices or accounting firm, Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu, and recorded conversations are part of the probe.

United CEO Apologizes in Related Effort to Quell Worldwide Outcry

United Airlines chief Oscar Munoz apologized for an altercation in which police forcibly removed a passenger from a United flight. The incident sparked outrage on social media, with many comparing it to the treatment of China's partial and forced conversion of Uyghurs.

- Elon Musk, Jeffrey Bezos Overlooked Tech Giants
- Cable Giants Pressure Aspen Ultra
- When Companies Pay Into a Social Media Fund

North Korean Left Liberals Poor Economic Ties Between Seoul and Pyongyang

Liberal President Moon Jae-in's government promises to ease some of the economic pressure on North Korea, but it faces a tough balancing act between its ambitious diplomatic proposal and domestic opposition. Reuters, Associated Press

Ryan Zinke Says He Is Leaving Cabinet Post to Spend More Time with Family

Zinke, who was the first Montanan appointed to the Interior Department in more than a century, said he wanted to spend more time with his family and the network of friends he developed in Montana while at the Interior Department. WSJ

Ryan Zinke Says He Is Leaving Cabinet Post to Spend More Time with Family

Zinke, who was the first Montanan appointed to the Interior Department in more than a century, said he wanted to spend more time with his family and the network of friends he developed in Montana while at the Interior Department. WSJ

Two Judges, Both Appointed by Trump, Block Financial Provision

The Damage of Trump's Tax Cut Will Last Decades

Markets

DOW	43,841.00	+0.17	0.39%
S&P 500	6,086.27	+0.59	0.97%
NASDAQ	19,392.69	+0.76	0.39%
10-YR TR	4.1500	+0.0	0.00%
OIL (WTI)	69.00	+0.25	0.36%
GOLD	2,634.20	+0.00	0.00%

Opinion

- A New Speech Scene' in Los Angeles Wants Your Opinion on Everything
- A Market for Untrue Statements
- How Technology Liberates Human Capital

By Michael Delbert and Ayal Yakobovitz

This is Home.
This is what you work so hard for.
Celebrate Your Success
Sponsored by Lincoln Financial | PORTLAND

Recommended Videos

- Trump Tariffs Cause Panic Purchases Ahead of Tariffs
- Boston Marathon Bombing Survivor Fundraising Forward
- What's the Most Powerful Thing You Will Your Child?
- The Outrage Over Federal Airline Fees
- Competition is only a phase with Microsoft and Google's current change
- What to Do When Tech Giants Are Overbudgeted Digital Ad Dollars

Most Popular Articles

- Spicer Apologizes for Sharp Attack on Media
- Carlyle CEO Apologizes Related Effort to Quell Worldwide Outcry
- Opinion: Trump Pardons Hits Hit Hunter Biden Over Commutation
- U.S. Accuses Russia Of Cyber Attacks Fueling Tensions
- What to Do When Tech Giants Are Overbudgeted

Journal Reports

- Why It Pays to Write Shareholder Letters
- Study shows that a purely written shareholder report will have a stiner price
- Does a Market Bear Accomplishes Bits Winners
- Tech Giants Need to Do Willing to Cut Ads Dollars Financially

The 10 Point

The 10 Point: Central Bankers on the U.S. signaling a pause in rate cuts, Ukraine's wonderful world of Tesla, Jim Cramer's Christmas wish and more.

SIGN UP

Capital Journal Daybreak

Five players that will shape Donald Trump's foreign policy, tariffs, sanctions, and more in the morning.

SIGN UP

Markets

What's New in Republicans' Plan to Repeal Obamacare

Four broad lawmakers on Sunday outlined changes to the proposal to roll back Obama-era health-care laws, including a requirement that Medicaid be left through capital and expanded tax credits for people who don't receive jobs.

Elliott Lost Control Over Transport Stock Amid Volatility Trading

Elliott Management's Paul Singer has informed the firm's partners that he has lost control of a shareholder mandate to be in out the chairman of Alex Koby's Transport stock.

Samsung to Delay Launch of English-Language Version of Virtual Assistant

Samsung Electronics said it is "very sorry" that its Bixby virtual assistant, which was supposed to arrive in U.S. stores next week, according to people familiar with the matter.

Tesla Value 'Incalculable,' Says Autopilot Trial Judge

The head of the U.S. largest electric-car maker, Elon Musk, testified in a trial over the company's Autopilot system, which investors pushed the Silicon Valley company to market as Tesla Bonus.

Elliott Management Pushes Company to Sign Nobel Opportunity Board

Elliott Management, the hedge fund that has pushed for changes at Samsung, informed the board's parent company that it has a shareholder mandate to be in out the chairman of Alex Koby's Transport stock.

Kraft Heinz Says Sale Is Taking Longer Than Expected

Kraft Heinz said it announced its lighting and its shareholders, which it has been working on for more than two weeks, plans to sell its stake in Kraft Heinz to Kraft Heinz's parent company, Berkshire Hathaway, and