

Great journalism
needs you.

April 20, 2017

Support the work.
Start for 99¢

Edition: U.S. & World | Regional

In The News

Berkeley Starbucks Bill O'Reilly 'history' Ex-teacher arrested Henry Kissinger Hawaii Sarah Palin Fox News Serena Williams Ronda Rousey

ISIS claims attack on French police that left 1 dead, 2 wounded

A gunman opened fire on police on Paris's renowned Champs-Elysées, killing one and wounding two others before being fatally shot himself in an incident that shook France just three days before a crucial election.

By James McAuley and William Branigin

- Photos: The scene in Paris
- WorldViews: What you need to know about the French election

Egyptian American imprisoned in Egypt for 3 years lands in U.S. after Trump intervention

Aya Hijazi, a U.S. citizen and charity worker, was incarcerated without trial on charges that were widely denied. President Trump and his aides worked for weeks with Egyptian President Abdel Fatah al-Sisi to secure freedom for Hijazi, her husband and four other humanitarian workers.

By Robyn Rucker and Karen DeYoung • 1 hour ago

White House turns up heat on Congress to revise the Affordable Care Act

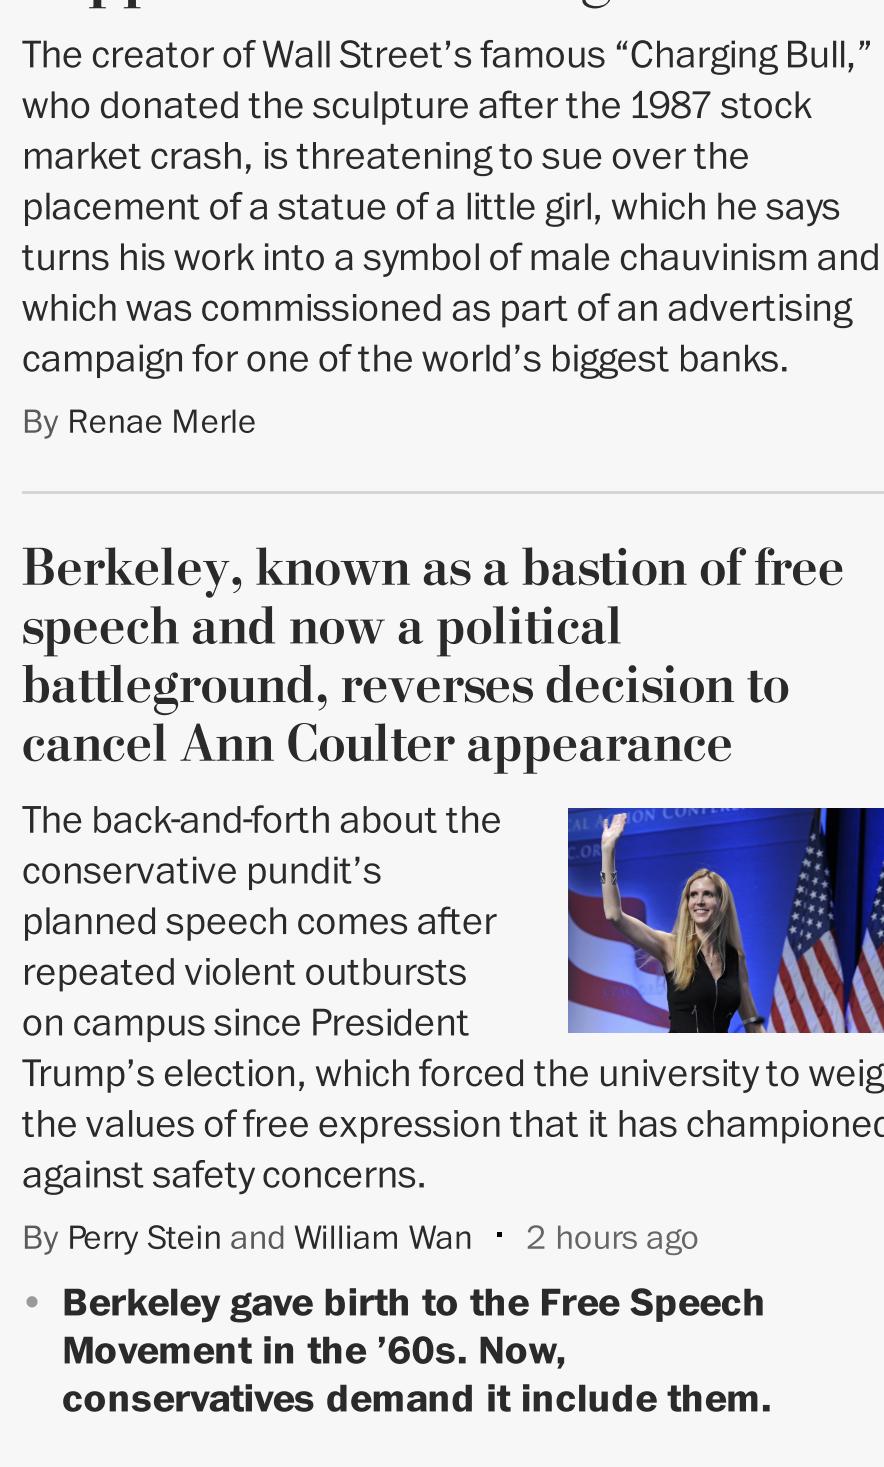

The fresh pressure was met with skepticism by some Capitol Hill Republicans and their aides.

By Paige Winfield Cunningham, Kelsey Snell and John Wagner

- White House could provoke spending showdown over border wall funding

The Washington Post

Democracy Dies in Darkness

(Getty Images)

If 'Fearless Girl' symbolizes women's rights, what happens to artists' rights?

The creator of Wall Street's famous "Charging Bull," who donated the sculpture after the 1987 stock market crash, is threatening to sue over the placement of a statue of a little girl, which he says turns his work into a symbol of male chauvinism and which was commissioned as part of an advertising campaign for one of the world's biggest banks.

By Renae Merle

Berkeley, known as a bastion of free speech and now a political battleground, reverses decision to cancel Ann Coulter appearance

The back-and-forth about the conservative pundit's planned speech comes after repeated violent outbursts on campus since President Trump's election, which forced the university to weigh the values of free expression that it has championed against safety concerns.

By Perry Stein and William Wan • 2 hours ago

- Berkeley gave birth to the Free Speech Movement in the 1960s. Now, conservatives demand it include them.

OpinionsStop sneering at Trump. It won't help.

By Michael Gerson

With North Korea, we do have cards to play

By Charles Krauthammer

Britain's election will look the same as ever. But everything will be completely different.

By Anne Applebaum

Fox's conduct is even more contemptible than O'Reilly's

By Ruth Marcus

Justice Dept. debating charges against WikiLeaks members in revelations of diplomatic, CIA materials

Prosecutors are examining the 2010 leak of cables and military documents, as well as the more recent revelation of CIA cyber-tools.

By Matt Zapototsky and Ellen Nakashima

Arkansas execution delayed by Supreme Court; state abandons a second planned lethal injection

In the latest setback for the state's slate of planned executions, two courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court, delayed the execution of Ledell Lee, 51. If it is carried out, Lee would be the first Arkansas inmate put to death in 12 years.

By Mark Berman • 20 minutes ago

The Fix Analysis Jeff Sessions doesn't think a judge in Hawaii — a.k.a. 'an island in the Pacific' — should overrule Trump

In his criticism of the judge who struck down President Trump's travel ban, the attorney general stumbles into a factual minefield: Hawaii is a state and has been since 1959, and Derrick Watson isn't a Hawaiian judge — he's a federal judge who serves on a district court in Hawaii.

By Aaron Blake

Court again finds intentional voter discrimination in Texas

The latest ruling means Texas's strict voter ID law, congressional maps and state legislative maps — all of which were enacted in 2011 — have recently been found in violation of federal law. The rulings carry the risk of a court punishing the state by demanding approval before changing voting laws.

By Paul J. Weber | AP

Russia just effectively banned Jehovah's Witnesses from the country

The pacifist group was labeled "extremist," and Russia's Supreme Court ruled that their headquarters and churches could be seized and liquidated, and that activities such as worship and door-to-door evangelizing were forbidden.

By Amanda Erickson

Reliable SourceTed Nugent, Sarah Palin, Kid Rock visit White House for dinner with Trump

The guests, who supported Donald Trump on the campaign trail, gushed about the visit on social media and posed for a smirky picture in front of Hillary Clinton's portrait.

By Emily Heil

Former teacher accused of kidnapping 'troubled' teenager captured at a remote California cabin

Tad Cummings was the focus of a Tennessee Bureau of Investigations manhunt after he disappeared with a 15-year-old girl in March. Authorities said the girl has been "safely recovered."

By Peter Holley and Cleve R. Wootson Jr.

Analysis As NFL's 2017 schedule is unveiled, here's a look at the can't-miss games

The Super Bowl rematch between the Patriots and Falcons comes Oct. 22 in Foxborough, Mass., and is just one of several games that hold intrigue.

By Mark Maske • 3 hours ago

- Analysis: Rating every game on Redskins' schedule
- PostEverything
- Bill O'Reilly's gone — with $25 million in severance. Now the hard work really starts for Fox News.
- Post reporter Robert Costa takes over helm of PBS's 'Washington Week'
- 'Bill O'Reilly is not going to be recorded favorably in history,' Rep. Maxine Waters says
- Perspective Carolyn Hax: Husband says the attraction is gone
- Lifestyle
- These photos show what it's like being a punk in Burma
- Here's where D.C. public transit can take you — and who gets left behind
- Photos of the spectacular and colorful 'super bloom' in California
- Business
- The biggest regrets people have after buying a home
- Venezuela seizes a General Motors plant amid anti-government protests
- Confide gets slapped with a lawsuit that says it's not as secure as it claims
- Read the latest from Capital Business
- Politics
- Henry Kissinger's lukewarm non-endorsement of Jared Kushner is even more damning than it seems
- Trump's First 100 Days: What has Trump accomplished so far?
- Freed Egyptian American prisoner returns home following Trump intervention
- Analysis
- Alex Jones is a narcissist, a witness testifies. And he's undermining his own attorneys.
- Perspective
- No, Erdogan was not an authoritarian all along
- Perspective
- A brief history of celebrity White House staffers
- Perspective
- Why did Putin oppose Clinton? Decades of American hypocrisy.
- Lifestyle
- Bill O'Reilly's gone — with $25 million in severance. Now the hard work really starts for Fox News.
- Post reporter Robert Costa takes over helm of PBS's 'Washington Week'
- 'Bill O'Reilly is not going to be recorded favorably in history,' Rep. Maxine Waters says
- Perspective Carolyn Hax: Husband says the attraction is gone
- Business
- The next big protest in Washington is this weekend's March for Science. And there are more to follow.
- So far this year, the Park Service has received 197 permit requests for demonstrations, a 33 percent increase over the same period last year.
- By Perry Stein
- Why scientists are marching on Washington and more than 400 other cities

Visual Stories

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more »

In Sight

These photos show what it's like being a punk in Burma

Here's where D.C. public transit can take you — and who gets left behind

Photos of the spectacular and colorful 'super bloom' in California

Business

The biggest regrets people have after buying a home

Venezuela seizes a General Motors plant amid anti-government protests

Confide gets slapped with a lawsuit that says it's not as secure as it claims

Read the latest from Capital Business

Politics

Henry Kissinger's lukewarm non-endorsement of Jared Kushner is even more damning than it seems

Trump's First 100 Days: What has Trump accomplished so far?

Freed Egyptian American prisoner returns home following Trump intervention

Analysis

Alex Jones is a narcissist, a witness testifies. And he's undermining his own attorneys.

Perspective

No, Erdogan was not an authoritarian all along

Perspective

A brief history of celebrity White House staffers

Perspective

Why did Putin oppose Clinton? Decades of American hypocrisy.

Lifestyle

Bill O'Reilly's gone — with $25 million in severance. Now the hard work really starts for Fox News.

Post reporter Robert Costa takes over helm of PBS's 'Washington Week'

'Bill O'Reilly is not going to be recorded favorably in history,' Rep. Maxine Waters says

Perspective Carolyn Hax: Husband says the attraction is gone

Business

The next big protest in Washington is this weekend's March for Science. And there are more to follow.

So far this year, the Park Service has received 197 permit requests for demonstrations, a 33 percent increase over the same period last year.

By Perry Stein

- Why scientists are marching on Washington and more than 400 other cities

Visual Stories

Share news tips with us confidentially

Do you have information the public should know? Here are some ways you can securely send information and documents to Post journalists.

Learn more »

In Sight

These photos show what it's like being a punk in Burma

Here's where D.C. public transit can take you — and who gets left behind

Photos of the spectacular and colorful 'super bloom' in California

Business

The biggest regrets people have after buying a home

Venezuela seizes a General Motors plant amid anti-government protests

Confide gets slapped with a lawsuit that says it's not as secure as it claims

Read the latest from Capital Business

Politics

Henry Kissinger's lukewarm non-endorsement of Jared Kushner is even more damning than it seems

Trump's First 100 Days: What has Trump accomplished so far?

Freed Egyptian American prisoner returns home following Trump intervention

Analysis

Alex Jones is a narcissist, a witness testifies. And he's undermining his own attorneys.

Perspective

No, Erdogan was not an authoritarian all along

Perspective

A brief history of celebrity White House staffers

Perspective

<div data-bbox="16 2035 229 2045" data-label